

Institute of Bio-Sensing Technology

Membership Form

IBST provides an effective business network that brings together companies and research institutions with an interest in the development or application of bio-sensing technology. Becoming a member of IBST will help you to keep abreast of recent developments in the bio-sensing technology field, forge new business relationships and raise awareness of your company to potential partners and investors.

If you would like to become a member of IBST, please complete this form and then press the 'Submit' button to submit the form by email or 'Print' to send the form by post. Membership is free.

Information submitted about your company will be made available on our website if you consent below. If at any time you wish to limit, amend or remove the information which is published on our website, please send details by email to: ibst@uwe.ac.uk.
